

FTHB Loans Script

[Greeting of your choosing]! If you're a first-time homebuyer, you might be wondering how to get started on your homeownership journey. Well, the good news is that there are special loans available just for you!

First-time homebuyer loans can help make your dream of owning a home a reality. These loans often have lower down payment requirements and more flexible credit score criteria, making them a great option for those just starting out.

There are a few popular first-time homebuyer loans - FHA, USDA and conventional loans. Each of these have their own perks to them, FHA loans have low down payment options available. USDA loans are designed for those buying a home in a rural area and offers zero down payment, and conventional loans have competitive interest rates.

Homeownership is closer than you think! If you're interested in learning more about your options, don't hesitate to reach out to us. Let's get you into a home!